

A background image showing two men in caps talking at a stadium. The man on the left is wearing a dark cap with a gold 'M' on it. The man on the right is wearing a red cap and glasses. They are both looking at each other and talking. The background is a blurred crowd of people in a stadium.

Ohio State & Michigan: The Rivalry

Be thoroughly entertained, experience the excitement of the annual Ohio State and Michigan encounter, and learn about meaningful moments that created America's greatest rivalry. Jack Park's high-powered presentations on the Buckeye-Wolverine series are packed with humor. His enthusiastic style is contagious. Programs are customized to audiences' needs and often include many of the following:

- The colorful players and coaches who created this great rivalry
- Why this encounter is the last game of the regular season for both schools
- Ohio State-Michigan 1969: The Big Ten's all-time most significant game
- Woody Hayes and Bo Schembechler and the "Ten Year War"
- Michigan's 86-0 triumph in 1902 and Ohio State's 50-14 victory in 1968
- Ohio State Coach Francis Schmidt and the "Gold Pants Club"
- Michigan Coach Field Yost's point-a-minute teams
- The unbelievable "Snow Bowl" of 1950
- Humorous stories and anecdotes of outstanding achievements

Jack Park, MBA, CPA, CSP, entertains radio audiences each season as a football commentator for Sports Radio 97.1 The Fan in Columbus. He speaks to clients nationally in more than 30 different states each year. Jack is the author of The Ohio State University Football Vault, The Official Ohio State Football Encyclopedia, and Ohio State Football... The Great Tradition.

Financial Insights – Jack Park, MBA, CPA, CSP

2439 Andover Road Columbus, Ohio 43221

(614) 481-0214 jp31@jackpark.com

jackpark.com